OF THE

SUPERINTENDING SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

DISTRICT NO. 1.

F. B. HEALD, Prudential Committee.

	1st Term.	2d Term.	3d Term.
Number of weeks,	11	11	12
Whole number of enrolled scholars,	30	32	36
Average number belonging to the school,	28	30	32
Average daily attendance,	28	30	30

This school has had too many teachers the past year for its greatest good, but each change seemed necessary. The year was opened in the summer by Mr. G. W. Nutter, who resigned at the end of the first term in order to enter a more lucrative (?) profession. He was a fair scholar, an easy worker and quite popular both in and out of school. The fall term was in charge of Mr. H. E. Drake, who was a good scholar and hard worker. In the course of a few weeks, however, some discord appeared which continued till his resignation at the end of the term. Miss M. E. Bemis taught the school during the winter. She brought most excellent order out of the confusion that seemed to exist and gave the district some very good work. The grade of this school is lowered and its full usefulness somewhat impaired by the promotion of scholars to this room that are not qualified for the advance. The average daily attendance for the past year—about thirty—in point of numbers is not too many, if the school could be properly graded. But it must be remembered that when a half dozen or so are brought up from the middle school—brought up to make way for some from the primary room so that the little ones will not be left to play in the street as has actually happened for want of room the past year—these scholars do not go into classes that already exist. They make nearly a complete set of new classes and take just so much time that ought to be given to pupils and classes belonging to a school of the grammar grade. The inevitable effect of this is to lower the grade of the school taken as a whole, although there are in it scholars as quick and bright as ever need to be in any school.

INTERMEDIATE SCHOOL.

	1st Term.	2d Term.	3d Term.
Number of weeks,	11	11	12
Whole number of enrolled scholars,	41	43	41
Average number belonging to the school,	40	42	37
Average daily attendance,	38	39	34

The teacher who rendered such good service last year, Miss H. D. Gordon, managed the school during the summer, but resigned at the end of the term to accept a position in a western city. The fall and winter terms were under the charge of Miss H. N. Barnard, a lady who came here from the public schools of Royalston, Mass., and who has tried to do well. This school, from its intermediate position, number of scholars and number of classes, is, perhaps, the best graded of any in the building.

PRIMARY SCHOOL.

	1st Term.	2d Term.	3d Term.
Number of weeks,	11	11	12
Whole number of enrolled scholars,	66	75	50
Average number belonging to the school,	58	63	39
Average daily attendance,	50	55	33

Miss L. E. Goodwin has had charge of this school for the year and has rendered her usual good service. The improvement in the small scholars under her care, when they care at all about coming to school, is always commendable. At the outset of the fall term the school was so large that twelve scholars were sent to the intermediate room, not because they were fully qualified, but to make room for new-comers. There were also a few left to play on "the acre" without having their cases looked up by the committee for the good and sufficient reason that there was "standing room only" at the school-house; all making a grand total of over ninety pupils that ought to have been in a primary school in this village. But the attendance of the smallest children is always somewhat irregular so that the daily average of enrolled pupils came just within the seating capacity of the room—a number too great for the best interests of any school. The prevalence of whooping cough in the winter brought down the daily attendance in all the schools but especially in this and the intermediate, till at the close there were only about twenty-five scholars present in each room—something new for these schools.

DISTRICT NO. 2.

H. L. NEWELL, Prudential Committee.

	1st. Term.	2d Term.
Number of weeks,	10	11½
Whole number of enrolled pupils,	10	8
Average number belonging to the school,	9½	6½
Average daily attendance,	9	5½

For the year this school has been in care of Miss Nellie L. Smith, who carried matters along quietly, with good advantage to all who cared to learn. The poll and estate apportionment of $84.16 coming to this district was increased by $40, put in the hands of the Selectmen so that the total amount of schooling was over twenty-one weeks against fifteen weeks of the previous year.

DISTRICT NO. 3.

E. L. GRAY, Pradential Committee.

	1st Term.	2d Term.	3d Term.
Number of weeks,	9	8	8
Whole number of enrolled pupils,	18	20	16
Average number belonging to the school,	16	17	15
Average daily attendance,	14	16	13

This is another school that has had too many teachers for its best good. The summer teacher was Miss Josie C. Moulton, who came here direct from the Salem Normal School without any experience in practical work. Her education was sufficient, but a little more experience would have been better.

Miss Della L. Shumway taught the school very acceptably in the fall, and would have been her own successor had she not resigned at the end of the term to take a place in Massachusetts. Miss Helen E. Hood, a lady of fifteen years' experience taught the winter term. She was polite and painstaking, so that all those who remained through the term learned something. During the term, however, the school got into a state of unrest so that at the last visit made by the committee there were but seven scholars present, the smallest number ever seen by him there. The total number of different scholars during the year in this district has been twenty-two; seven coming from Greenville, and fifteen from Mason. Of the school money Greenville has furnished $106.36, and Mason $73.68. The town of Mason used to be a little slow in paying over this school money, but lately they have been very prompt.

Out of the whole number of teachers employed during the year—ten in all—four report an attendance at some normal school. Your committee is a firm believer in the employment of normal teachers—after these same teachers have had a few terms of practical experience in some other town. Other things being equal, it seems as if some of the best work is being done now by those teachers who have had actual experience enough to know what normal methods can and what cannot be carried into daily use in our country and village public schools as they are to be found scattered all over the state.

The total number of different scholars enrolled as attending not less than two weeks the past year has been 238—122 boys and 116 girls—a total gain of 26 from the preceding year. The average cost of educating each scholar for the year has been about $5.61.

From a knowledge of the present financial condition of each district, with a surplus hardly, if at all, exceeding twenty-five dollars in the whole ~~term~~<sup>year</sup>, your committee respectfully suggests that an appropriation of not less than $1,200 will be fully needed, else the schools must be cut down in quantity or quality.

The following is the
